

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an information display method applied to an information management system for managing a plurality of jobs, a plurality of information items, respectively associated with the plurality of jobs, are stored.

When a user designates an attribute serving as a reference for information classification, information contained in the plurality of information items is classified with reference to the designated attribute and the classified information is displayed.

RECORDED BY COMPUTER